

When tables are arranged in a single row side by side with chairs only in between, there shall be at least 55 inches between the tables. There is no minimum distance between the tables and the wall. The tables may be against the wall.