Breast Cancer Does Not Discriminate: Knowledge is Power

Breast cancer does not discriminate. We know that any woman of any race or ethnic background can get it and sometimes, even men. Many changes occur in your breasts during your lifetime. It is important to understand which changes are normal and which are not.

Knowledge is power, and understanding the common signs of breast cancer can make all the difference in early detection. Regular breast cancer screenings, including mammograms and clinical breast exams, play a crucial role in detecting the condition at its early stages. Join us to learn about breast cancer risk factors, warning signs, and other breast conditions.
